Cass Park Historic District

Detroit

Around Cass Park near the Masonic Temple, two blocks west of Woodward. Marilyn Florek of BVH Architecture, consultant, for the city of Detroit

Robert Christensen, National Register Coordinator

Containing buildings ranging from a large Victorian house to 1890s-1920s apartment buildings to a hotel to the Masonic Temple and former Kresge Company headquarters, the Cass Park district illustrates the dramatic transformation of Detroit's old neighborhoods in the early twentieth century due to the city's auto-related boom.
